

DAY ELEVEN: December 5th

Widows and Property

Some traditional cultures ignore a widow's human rights. In practice, especially in some rural areas, it is widely assumed that only men should own or inherit land, that widowhood terminates a woman's social legitimacy. It is common for widows to be isolated and banned from participation in community activities.

Michelle's Story

When Michelle, 57, was widowed in 2012, she lost more than her husband. Shortly after his death, her in-laws took over the fields she had tilled for decades. They also stole fruit from the trees in her kitchen garden and sold the harvest, leaving her without any livelihood. They further intimidated and insulted her by surrounding her and attempting to chase her away.

Michelle's neighbours advised her that the Legal Resources Foundation could help her to protect her inheritance. When this legal aid organisation took the matter to court and Michelle obtained restraining orders against her in-laws, she was able to go back to tilling her fields. But her in-laws continue to threaten her, so she still worries about the future: "I am fearful and my heart is unsettled."

Global Facts

- One in seven widows globally - 38 million, lives in extreme poverty.
- A significant number of girls are widowed in childhood - a reflection of the prevalence of child marriage and the custom of marrying off young girls to much older men. (Source: World Widows 2015 Report published by the Loomba Foundation)
- Advocates cite the baffling omission of widows' welfare from the U.N. SDGs as evidence of a critical blind spot in aid efforts.

VIOLENCE AGAINST WOMEN

is a systematic and widespread human rights violation. It cuts across age, socio-economic, educational and geographic boundaries.

www.google.ie/search?q=images+of+orange+the+world+for+free

49 Countries have no laws to protect women from domestic violence.

“GENDER-BASED VIOLENCE - A GLOBAL EPIDEMIC ... endangers the life of women & girls with negative consequences not only for them, but also for their children & communities. Ending this scourge is integral to the development of women’s human capital & unleashing their contribution to economic growth.”
